

Super Hero Influence

"Harnessing the Powers Needed to Impact People"

Team Training Program

The power to positively change your life and the lives of others depends on your degree of influence. Without influence, success is impossible. Becoming influential is foundational to anyone who aspires to be a leader.

John C. Maxwell believes that leadership IS influence. He and co-author Jim Dornan, spell out ten fundamental qualities that define influencers in the book "Becoming a Person of Influence."

Influence does not develop overnight, but rather through a progression of four stages: modeling, motivation, mentoring and multiplying. No matter where you are in your profession, you can learn the qualities to help you grow as you go through these stages.

ActionCOACH Heartland offers the "Super Hero Influence" training program with several options. We recommend you start with a live interactive workshop followed by a series of 1-hour mastermind sessions. You also can cover the entire program in a full-day retreat format.

This program is applicable for people at any level within your business. The principles contained in this program have been tested and proven over time. Super Hero Influence introduces people to a learning process that can result in on-going personal and professional growth.
